See details . a call from Ms. Stidham, the assistant counsel for the NLRB. During that conversation Ms. Stidham told me that the NLRB had issued a complaint concerning the company's actions in "denying its employees unionization rights." In addition, Ms. Stidham indicated that her agency might issue a bargaining order against the company.[3] Ms. Stidham left me several phone messages on the following day. These messages (see [#16], Ex. I.) indicated that her office would be issuing a complaint based on information it had received from the General Counsel's office in Washington, D.C. On January 24, 2001, she sent me a letter (see [#16], Ex. J) which, in essence, informed me that the NLRB was going to issue a bargaining order and that the company should be prepared to show cause why the NLRB should not be ordered to do so. On March 16, 2001, the NLRB Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued a Decision and Order (see [#17], Ex. C) finding that the company had engaged in unfair labor practices in violation of section 8(a) of the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA), 29 U.S.C. § 158(a), by withdrawing recognition and entering into a prehire agreement with Sixty-Eight Insulation. The ALJ also ruled that the company was required to bargain with Sixty-Eight Insulation and ordered the
